Bethel selectmen OK use of airport shed by taxi service

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen approved a proposal on Monday evening for a private taxi service to operate from the operations shed at the Col. Dyke Airport.

The arrangement, which will not affect the public's access to the building, was proposed by Wayne Parker, of Your Cab Inc. It calls for Parker to pay his own utilities at the building and a lease fee to the town. In addition, Parker volunteered to provide the labor needed to make improvements at the shed.

Parker proposed to use the shed as a base of operations for his taxi company. He said he would not live there, but would be there (when not on a call).

Umbagog refuge nearing reality

House-Senate negotiators have approved a $5 million appropriation to begin establishment of a wildlife refuge at Lake Umbagog, N.H. Sen. Warren Rudman announced last week.

Approved as part of the 1992 Interior Department Appropriations Bill, the $5 million will be used to purchase or protect through easements an initial 7,886 acres in Maine and New Hampshire and establish the Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge.

"This is nearly a done deal," Rudman said. "All that's left is to pass the Conference Report, a routine matter, and send the bill to President Bush for his signature." Citing the record summer tourist season in parts of northern New Hampshire this year, Rudman noted: "the quality of our environment and the welfare of our hospitality industry are firmly linked."

Most Upton area residents appear to agree. "I think it'll have a very good impact on the area," said Richard LeComte selectman in Upton, which borders on the lake. "There are many people who approve of it. There's a lot more who are for it than there are against."

LeComte added that he thinks the public supports the refuge because it will protect the environment, not because it may draw a few tourists. "It's not a Winnepesaukee up here," he said.

Newry will toe Bethel's line

By WENDY HANSCOM

After 17 years of debate over where the Newry/Bethel town line should run, the issue will finally be laid to rest this week. Newry and Bethel selectmen are scheduled to walk the boundary today (Wednesday) and establish a new line.

The two towns have been in and out of court for 15 years over the issue. Newry officials wanted the present crooked line to be left as it is. While Bethel officials said that state documents prove that the line should be straight.

"Basically it was the feeling of the town of Newry," said Selectman Steve Wight, "that an attempt was made originally to make a straight line as best as surveyors could do with the equipment of the day."

The court battle between Newry and Bethel ended with Judge Robert Browne advising that the two towns meet and work the matter out.

"We've decided it's not worth arguing over," Wight said. "Where we (Newry and Bethel selectmen) say the line is during our walk, as long as it's a straight line, then that's where it's going to be. We hope we don't have to do this again."

But agreeing on the line may turn out to be a lot easier than actually finding a line to agree on.

Bethel Selectmen Henry Dombkowski, one of the two town selectmen who will perambulate the line, reminded the Bethel board Monday night that, because of the dispute between the towns, the line has not been properly surveyed for more than 15 years. And part of the line, he said, run through alder, which only holds a blaze for a few years.

"I think all we're going to do is go through a lot of brush and see that there's a lot of brush," he predicted.

In another minor land dispute, while Newry may have given up the town-line battle, the town selectmen

Reconstruction of Rt. 26 in Greenwood set to start summer '92, finish spring '93

Maine Department of Transportation officials say road construction on a 1.57-mile stretch of Route 26, which runs through the Locke Mills village, should be complete by the spring of 1993.

About 35 Greenwood residents gathered at a public hearing on the proposal Monday night. Most seemed receptive to the idea, but a few were concerned over how the project would affect their properties. A straw-vote by MDOT officials at the end of the meeting revealed that of the 27 people who raised their hands, 18 were in favor of the project and 9 were opposed.

MDOT Assistant Highway Design Engineer Walter Hendrickson said the improvements are slated for Route 26 beginning 200 feet west of the East Bethel Road and ending near the Greenwood/Woodstock town line.

Hendrickson said the original road was built in 1937 and 1939. He estimated that about 4,300 vehicles travel that stretch of road every day and 6 percent of that traffic is heavy trucks. MDOT projects that by 2011, traffic volume may rise to 6,900 vehicles a day, he said.

Two types of basic road work will be done on the project.

In the village area, Hendrickson said, the highway's center core will be dug up, shoulders put in, current sidewalks will be replaced with five-foot paved ones, new drainage beds installed and guard rails where needed. "It will virtually be a new highway," he said.

The current village area road width is 22 feet, Hendrickson said. The construction would extend the width to 30 feet. The expansion is due mainly to

Economic realities driving some folks back to the books

By WENDY HANSCOM

The economy's soft and lots of people are out of work, but instead of despairing over their circumstances some unemployed SAD #44 residents are looking ahead by turning back—to the books.

Enrollment in the district's adult education program is up this year. The number of people already enrolled this semester in basic and secondary education and the Graduate Equivalency Diploma (GED) program surpasses the totals for all of last year.

In 1989-90, 58 people participated in the three programs. Last school year, 73 students were enrolled. This year to date 82 adults have already signed up.

Adult Ed. Director Cathy Newell said one reason enrollment is up is that the courses are now offered at different times so they fit a wide variety of schedules.

For example, day students can go to the adult learning center at the Ethel Bisbee School, while night students take courses at Telstar High School.

High unemployment is without question another factor in the increased enrollment. "The economy is bringing people in for sure," said Newell. "But even if people do have employment, it's still very important for them to have high school credentials. If they go to Mountain Valley Training or a job service and they don't have a high school diploma they're going to be referred to Adult Ed. Mountain Valley Training is backed up. People are placed on the waiting list or told to call back in two months. So in the interim they turn to Adult Ed."

Newell said statewide figures show that about a third of people in Adult Ed. have their high school diploma. But in this district, she estimated that at least two-thirds of Adult Ed. students already have a high school diploma.

Dottie Brown of Bryant Pond has her high school diploma and most recently worked in a Norway grocery store. Her part-time hours there eventually tapered off and now she's spending her days studying.

"I've been out of school for 21 years," Brown said, "but I'm getting

Undefeated Rebels charge into field hockey playoffs

Season's goal tally: 27 for, 2 against

By WENDY HANSCOM

The undefeated 1991 Telstar High School field hockey team begins its quest for the state championship this week.

The Rebels hope three time will be lucky—this will be their third consecutive championship run. For the past two years the girls have lost 1-0 in heartbreaking state championship battles.

In 1989 the Rebels posted a 13-3-2 record. The girls swept through the playoffs, and in the state championship they held Winthrop High School scoreless until three minutes into sudden death overtime.

Last season, the girls improved their record by one, going 14-2-2. Again they reached the championship, and again they played an outstanding game—allowing Eastern Maine champion Orono High School only two shots on goal during the state championship game. But that second shot proved fatal and the Rebels once again fell just short.

This season the Rebels' regular season record is unblemished. On Monday, the girls beat Winthrop High School 2-0 to finish this season with a 12-0 record.

Winthrop held the Rebels scoreless for the first half, but Amy Hannon ferred in two goals in the second half to wrap up the win.

It was uncertain at press time when Telstar will begin play-off action.

Play-off games are scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

The girls will have to win three games to get to the state championship bout. The winners of this week's quarterfinals will meet next Tuesday in semi-final action, and the Western Maine Class C final is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 2.

Co-coach Gail Wight said she expects the competition to be tough. "If we're playing teams in the top eight, you've got to figure it's going to be pretty evenly matched," she said.

But during the regular season no one was able to put out the Rebels' fire. Wight said the girls played consistently good defense and offense all season.

From Sen. William Cohen Keep the Medicare hotlines open

What happens when a sharp-eyed senior citizen notices that his or her optometrist has charged Medicare for three pairs of eyeglasses but has delivered only one?

Now he or she can report that discrepancy on a Medicare hotline and, if there's a diligent investigator on the other end of the line, an honest mistake is corrected or prosecution results and the government saves money.

Today, nearly 33 million beneficiaries nationwide use the toll-free line, not just to report suspected fraud, but also to get answers to questions about benefits or claims.

The calls are routed directly to Medicare carriers, the insurance companies authorized to process and pay the bills health care providers submit for services rendered to the nation's elderly and disabled populations.

Last year the hotlines handled nearly 15 million calls at a cost of $22 million. That comes to $1.39 per call by my calculations, which is a small price to pay for the millions of dollars that have been saved by investigating complaints.

Take the case of a Medicare carrier in Massachusetts who received several hotline calls alleging an eye-care provider's overbilling. An investigation revealed that the provider's billing agent had submitted nearly 300 fraudulent claims for eye exams, totaling $658,000. In court, the agent pleaded guilty to defrauding Medicare, was fined $25,000 and was barred from the Medicare program. The provider was ordered to pay the government $2.5 million (plus interest).

But the toll-free lines may not be around much longer. Medicare is considering eliminating them because of a budget shortfall.

In my opinion that would be a false economy as well as a major inconvenience for Medicare beneficiaries.

Doing away with the lines will force patients to pay for costly, prime-time long-distance calls if they have questions about benefits or claims. For beneficiaries on fixed incomes, that probably will mean that their questions will go unanswered and their problems unresolved.

But equally important, we will be doing away with a service that saves money.

In recent testimony before the Senate Special Committee on Aging, on which I serve as ranking Republican, Health and Human Services Inspector General Richard Kusserow noted that Medicare beneficiaries "in many ways... are the first line of defense against Medicare fraud."

The General Accounting Office found that every $1 spent on safeguard efforts, like the hotlines, can result in $11 saved for Medicare. And the GAO points out that for every Medicare dollar wasted, "the beneficiary risks potential cutbacks in program coverage, increased out-of-pocket expenses for deductibles and coinsurance, and increased premiums for both Medicare and supplemental insurance."

In hope of preserving the hotlines, I have taken action on two fronts. I have joined with several of my Senate colleagues in asking President Bush to preserve the lines, and I have sent a personal letter to Gail Wilensky, the administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration, which oversees Medicare, to ask that she take steps to ensure the lines' continued operation.

It is imperative that the hotlines remain open. If fraudulent practices go unchecked and important questions go unanswered, the integrity of Medicare will be placed in jeopardy, harming those with the greatest stake in the program.

From Sen. George Mitchell Maine health program helps lead the way

Maine is well known for its innovative efforts to increase access to health care. One such initiative recently received $25 million in federal support through a new Medicaid demonstration program established by legislation I authored.

Currently, the Medicaid program helps provide access to health care to a limited population: persons who are very poor and who fall into certain categories, such as pregnant women, children and the elderly.

Last year, the Maine Health Plan established a program to expand access to health care to thousands of low-income Mainers not otherwise eligible for Medicaid coverage. Funding under the Maine Health Plan was limited to state-only dollars.

I developed a demonstration program, based on the example of the Maine Health Plan, to provide federal support for such state efforts. This three-year demonstration program is designed to allow states to extend Medicaid health insurance coverage to certain low-income individuals and families who do not currently qualify for Medicaid benefits.

Under the program, states are authorized to provide assistance to eligible individual who have no access to employer-based health insurance coverage. Persons who are employed but are not currently enrolled in employer-sponsored plans also may qualify for coverage.

I am pleased that Maine has been awarded the $25 million grant through this program to help the Maine Health Plan expand its health coverage for low-income persons not currently eligible for Medicaid. These funds will allow Maine to continue its efforts to provide access to health insurance for low-income persons in difficult economic times.

Maine adults with incomes of up to 100 percent of the poverty level and children living at up to 125 percent of the poverty level will be able to qualify for the expanded benefits provided by these funds.

As in states across the country it is clear that a significant number of Mainers do not have access to adequate and affordable health care. Approximately 130,000 citizens in the state are uninsured or underinsured and two-thirds of the uninsured are employed or their dependents.

The demonstration program will enable expanded assistance to those in need in Maine and around the country. In addition, the information provided by experiences with the program will be valuable to me as I continue to work to reform the nation's health care system.

The program is a modest but important step toward necessary overhaul of our national health policy. I will continue to work to develop measures to provide health coverage for those in need, and to enact comprehensive health care reform in this Congress.

Sanborn and the Gimmazium's Zoltan Fodor.

The announcement to a surprised 175 students and their parents during a preview of March Four Points program was initially greeted with disbelief. According to a teacher who was at the assembly, "Most of the freshmen kept waiting for the punch line to Mr. Clough's joke," but when it became apparent that it was a serious program announcement, the auditorium broke into loud applause.

Concluding the announcement, Headmaster Bill Clough said, "We decided that, with Steve in Hungary and Zoltan here, we just couldn't pass up the opportunity to do something really exceptional."

There are many details to be worked out, not the least of which will be securing the funding for the exchange. A good start to that end was made at the Parents' Weekend auction Saturday night, successfully executed by Vicki Racklife and auctioneers Dave Murphy and Bill Cousins.

AWARD WINNING QUILT—Cyndy Kane Olson of East Bethel won the Jeanine Fleet Award of Excellence at the Waterford Fair with her lover's knot designed quilt. Olson's name was added to a plaque of past winners in the fair's exhibition hall. The quilt also won the Oxford Fair Judges Special Award and a blue ribbon at the Fryeburg Fair. Olson said she's done machine quilting for about four years, but has had a life-long interest in sewing. She learned machine quilting through the SAD #44 Adult Ed. program.

Letters to the editor

FIGHTING THE OVERFLIGHTS

To the Editor:

Maine's entire Congressional Delegation has written to the National Guard in Washington, asking not only that they stop plans to expand low-level jet flights over western and northern Maine, but also that existing flights be controlled more carefully.

At the same time, Governor McKernan and state parks and transportation officials also have opposed the plan.

This is an issue of competence, not patriotism. There are many reports of military jets flying too close to other planes, houses and people. That isn't a necessary part of training for national defense. The National Guard needs to show us that it can manage existing flight rules properly, not send many more planes in at lower elevations and higher speeds.

"Thank you" to Senators Cohen and Mitchell, Representatives Snowe and Andrews, Governor McKernan and their staffs for listening to people in western Maine and acting on our behalf.

This is an example of the good things that happen when we speak out together!

PAROLE, NOT MORE PRISONS

To the Editor:

Do we need a new prison bond issue of $5.5 million, that will bring the cost per man, per year, incarcerated to well over $40,000 each? Or are there more realistic and proper solutions and alternatives?

Two very real and appalling facts should be made available to the public. One, Maine's sentences are extremely excessive in comparison to all the other states. In most cases, two or three times greater, and we have no parole system, or incentives. Two, due to an unfair and unjust trial system, as well as allowable illegal plea bargaining of intimidation, it is accurate to state that better than 50 percent of the men in captivity are wrongfully convicted and should not be imprisoned.

What I propose, as one of these many above mentioned, is a one time 50 percent sentence reduction, coupled with automatic reduced sentence guidelines for the courts. The present sentencing structure produces nothing but extreme waste on all levels and is escalating daily while providing less each day in terms of corrective rehabilitation.

The new prison bond issue mandates even less and in doing so will turn out to the public even greater offenders than it presently does, with an 85 percent recidivism rate now. The longer the prison sentence, the greater the risk to the public in the future.

We need education programs, job training, business skills, value training and employment, not more beds and wasteful costs to the public. Do not allow this bond issue to pass, and with it, your taxes increase still higher than they are now. God bless you all, and thank you.

COMMUNITY CONFERENCE II PLANNING OUR FUTURE

Community Conference II: Planning Our Future will be held on Friday, Nov. 15 from 9-4 at the Locke Mills Legion Hall. The conference will provide a day-long opportunity for residents of the area to share ideas and plan together for the future.

The conference is sponsored by the Bethel Area Task Force, and is being underwritten by the Bethel Savings Bank, Sunday River Ski Resort, the Bethel Rotary Club, SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, and the Jackson-Silver Post.

Over 100 residents have already been involved in preparations for Community Conference II, through their participation in focus groups, 11 of which have met over the past few weeks, with several more yet to meet. Data collected from the groups, each of which involves from five to 15 people sharing a common interest or identification, will be used in planning the Conference.

Community Conference II is open, at no charge, to citizens of the SAD #44 towns who are interested in planning together for the future. There is no need to have attended a focus group in order to come to the conference. To register, call SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, 824-2780.

The following summaries have been prepared by focus groups which have met in recent weeks:

NTL Focus Group

The overwhelming sentiment from the NTL Focus Group was a recognition of the "uniqueness...specialness" about the Bethel area which cannot be duplicated. Interestingly, for NTL and for Bethel, it is a reciprocal uniqueness—that is, NTL is part of Bethel's uniqueness and Bethel is part of NTL's uniqueness. This realization has been strengthened through the "Summer of '91" and has emerged not as "Bethel and NTL need each other" but rather that "Bethel and NTL want each other!"

Another theme, and wish, from the NTL Focus Group is that NTL develop more of a year-round presence and/or that the NTL facilities be utilized more on a year-round basis. This could link together with a more developed arts/cultural/educational program offered by the community.

This concept also fits with the opportunity that exists for Bethel to aspire to be a "model" community for personal, professional and social system growth and education, including having world-class conference facilities. The energy, enthusiasm and fresh ideas coming out of this focus group's conversation can serve as another avenue for a continuing and mutually beneficial relationship between NTL and the Bethel community.

Churches

The church focus group meeting in preparation for November's Community Conference appreciated the Bethel area churches' clothing closets and food cupboard, their ecumenical services and get-togethers, and the individual churches' educational and spiritual activities that benefit this area.

The group's six participants also appreciated the area's beauty, natural recreation opportunities and relaxed life style, and its people's warmth, helpfulness and trust. They found the Bethel area a good place in which to raise children, a place that soon becomes "home" to newcomers. They said church has a lot to do with these feelings.

The participants wished the area offered young people more service and recreation opportunities, and their suggestions included clearing trash from roadsides, helping residents prepare their homes for winter, expanding the district's after-school program with the help of community volunteers, and turning an unused building into a recreation center.

These and other programs—like a "day care" center for the elderly, a program like Oxford Hills area's OON-NECT, and encouraging skiers and other visitors to make this area home for their businesses and themselves—could improve people's self-esteem, employment opportunities and community life for all of us.

Although they recognized that church often "takes a back seat" to school and other activities, someone said, "If we were impacting back, we'd get more people seeing what churches could do for them."

Health Professions

The focus group involving the health professions met at the Bingham House on Monday, Oct. 7, with 13 present representing the various health disciplines in the area. These included representation from the Bethel Area Health Center, Tri County Mental Health, Androscoggin Home Health, SAD #44 school health, chiropractic, long term health (nurs-

Volunteers are the lifeblood of organizations such as the Bethel Historical Society, which since its founding has depended heavily upon the enthusiasm and dedication of its volunteers.

Volunteers have made the difference in the Society's success in so many of its projects. More than 100 individuals do at least one thing in support of the Society, whether it be participating on committees, guiding in the museum, assisting with collections or furnishing refreshments for a monthly meeting. Volunteers are always needed at the Society.

What is particularly needed at this time are volunteers to cover the office during the week to answer the phone and take messages, to operate the museum store and to assist with office operations. Anyone who might be willing to volunteer some time should call the Society office at 207-824-2008.

More progress continues on reaching the 1991 Bethel Historical Society endowment campaign. Among the latest donors are Stephen Trent Seanes, Portland, in memory of Agnes H. Haines (1915-1991); Dr. Charles and Edith Seashore, Columbia, Md., in memory of Bruce Bailey; Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr, Bethel; Franklin and Rosalind Chapman, Bethel; Richard and Rita Davis, Bethel; Dexter and Janet Stowell, Bethel, in memory of Bruce Bailey; Donald and Constance Vantour, West Bethel, in memory of Agnes H. Spalding, Tewksbury, Mass., in memory of Grace Farwell Buck. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity.

Newest member of the Society is Gertrude D. Urquhart of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

back into the routine. Studying regularly makes it easier." She goes to the adult learning center four times a week for brush-up math, language arts and just to study. "It's hard to stay at home and get studying done. I can always find something else to do," she said.

The adult learners work at their own pace, with help when needed from instructor Nancy Merrow. Pauline Mills of Bryant Pond also has her high school diploma and comes to the center to study. She lost her job when GAMM II closed in the spring of 1990.

Mills has been taking Adult Ed. courses since then. She's already completed the technical course Women Unlimited.

Merrow said Mills is adept at math and computer skills. Mills would like to find a job that would combine the two skills, she said.

Another factor in the increased Adult Ed. figures is the implementation of the Project Workplace program. Bethel Furniture Stock in West Bethel is the first company in the Bethel area to participate in the program. About 31 employees, or nearly half of the 67 person workforce, are enrolled.

Gail Buker of West Bethel took the first course offering, communications, to help her with her supervisory job. Then she decided to brush-up on her math. "I took math as a refresher," she said, "and to help my son and learn what he's doing."

Buker takes the course at the mill after work. She said studying is not a problem because she just sits down with her two children and does her homework with them.

Ben Porter of Berlin, N.H. is also taking math and beginning work towards his GED. He said he dropped out of high school his sophomore year in 1978. "My girlfriend just got her GED and she gives me a lot of support," Porter said. Keeping up with the kids is also one of his goals. He said he'd like to be better able to help his girlfriend's son with his homework.

Larry Roderick of Newry is brushing up on his academic skills before considering moving on to college courses. "I needed math," he said, "but it's hard to study sometimes, especially the newer math that I never had in high school." Roderick said he'd eventually like to become a children's counselor.

Adults who need help narrowing down what they might be interested in for careers can get help from Adult Ed.'s guidance service.

"Some people come in here and they don't have a lot of direction," Newell said. "They may have been home with kids or doing mill work or logging. They've had some sort of a change and they don't know what to do. We have a guidance service to work one-to-one with them and a computer program. You can plug in your abilities, aptitudes and limitations and it will sift down the job titles based on the things you put in. Then the results and options are researched. We know what realistic jobs are available in this area and the education needed. We've had a lot of people make good use of it."

"Our world is changing fast," she said, "and people at all different levels of employment are subject to workplace illiteracy as technology changes. We have to become life-long learners."

Newell said that besides the increase in enrollment she's also seeing a new synergy among the various components of Adult Ed.

"All the separate pieces seem to be working together," she said. "The people in GED may move up to interactive television (college level) courses.

ITV people may need a brush-up before they begin the courses. It's really become much more interrelated."

The addition of ITV classes has been a real step forward for Adult Ed., Newell said. "For many years adult learners may have wanted to go college," she said, "but it was out of the ballpark for them."

ITV courses began last fall. Thirty-three people enrolled in one of 18 classes. This fall there are 19 classes, with 39 students.

Next summer Adult Ed. will increase the number of offerings by picking up another channel. Most of the classes broadcast originated from the University of Maine campuses at Augusta and Orono.

Newell said that making sure people are aware of all Adult Ed. has to offer is a struggle. "We keep reminding people of the value of Adult Ed., but sometimes it's a challenge to make them see the whole picture. We need to think of education as something that never ends, something you can pop in and out of. People need to see themselves grow as a learner and say 'I can do that' and not turn off to it."

got support from the state last week regarding their method of taxing the Powder Ridge Development.

Wight said the selectmen were notified by the state tax assessor that they were taxing the subdivision correctly.

Powder Ridge developers complained earlier this month that they were being taxed unfairly. Glover Development Corporation representatives told Newry selectmen they were unhappy with the selectmen's decision to tax the subdivision lots as individual lots before they were sold.

But, Wight said, "We've been advised by the state tax assessor that we were doing the right thing in taxing the way we did. Since we've used this procedure in all other cases, the assessor said it was the proper procedure in this case. We've been advised to keep an eye on the development, and if the lots remain unsold, we've been asked to take that into consideration another year."

The town is also sending in an application for a Community Development Block Grant. If secured, the grant money would be used to repair the town-owned Bear River Grange Hall, to make all Newry public buildings handicap accessible and to upgrade recreational equipment at the town office site.

Newry resident Rockie Graham has authored the proposal. In order to qualify for the funds, the town must prove the grant will benefit low to moderate income families.

Don't forget our first annual Halloween Party to be held in our gymnasium on Halloween night, Thursday, Oct. 31. All children through grade six are welcome. We are asking that parents accompany any pre-schoolers. The time is 6:30 p.m. Come in costume and join the fun and games. There will be refreshments and candy, too.

Our candy bar sales were a huge success. Many thanks to our parent volunteer coordinators, Michelle Blake and Jean Richards, and to everyone who participated. The donated money from this project will go towards field trips for every class.

The kindergarten classes and the first grade have visited the fire station to learn about fire prevention and safety during fire prevention month. Ken Bacon presented an excellent program and the teachers and students send him many "thank you's."

Mr. Bacon wore his fireman's gear, gave a tour of the fire station and talked about fire safety. He gave each one identifying stickers for their windows. The kindergarten classes have been learning about fire prevention with the help of Sparky the Fire Dog, and they have made a Sparky book.

They are learning about the letter B and have been making their letters in the sand trays. They have discussed Columbus Day and Columbus's journey to the new world. They also talked about the upcoming special anniversary and the special plans that have been made to celebrate worldwide. The children have made a replica of the Santa Maria.

In addition to their trip to the fire station, the first-graders studied fire prevention with the story of Smokey Bear, the Great Big Fire Engine Book, Smokey the Fireman, and Fire Dog. They have learned the rules for fire prevention. In reading they are blending sounds into words. Their wall cards used for this week's words picture an angry goose, a mixer and a roaring lion. These pictures illustrate certain sounds and help the children remember the sound by thinking about or looking at the picture. In math they are sorting materials by two different attributes. They are graphing with a pictograph using favorite things and weather as topics. They too are learning about Columbus.

Mrs. Perham's second-graders are writing seasonal stories. In spelling they are choosing seasonal words and they are working on number stories, otherwise known as fact families, up through 10. They are learning how doubles help in learning. Sometimes we use doubles plus one. For example, 2 plus 3, is 2 plus 2 plus 1. In science they are expecting a delivery of angle worms which will be used in a science project to make soil. Carolyn Hall is the special helper this week. Congratulations go to Jason Emery and Trey Sheard, they have read 25 books already this month. These two boys won a well deserved prize!

The third-graders are working with strategies for learning addition and subtraction facts and they are using the number line for their activities. In reading they are working with rhyming words and phonetic compound words. The children are reading from a book, Sounds After Dark. Mr. Burke is reading Stories Julian Tells. In science they are learning about skin structure and skin care. Their focus topics in writing are the correct set up, or form, for their paper and capitalizing the first word of a sentence. The third-graders are welcoming a new classmate, Jaymie Farrar.

One of the new ideas being implemented throughout the district in reading is to have certain books read at each grade level. Mr. Litchfield's fourth graders are beginning their first group book, an E.B. White favorite, Charlotte's Web. In their Maine Studies class, as soon as they finish learning about the clamming industry, they are going to study scalloping in Maine. In math they are playing games to reinforce the concept of regrouping in addition and subtraction. They are spending time each week on problem solving and are learning about the strategy of making a list to solve the problem.

My fifth-graders are also working on problem solving and have started with the strategy of making a table. We are finding that problem solving is not so difficult when we have a handy tactic to help us out. We are welcoming a new student, Lynda Farrar.

Since the first ranking period closes on Nov. 1, we are working hard to finish up writing assignments and book reports. The students write in their journals daily and are recording all kinds of information that is making up this year's history. We are continuing with our memorizing poetry, and are learning a wide variety of CRAFTY CONCENTRATION—Billy Murphy and Jessica Brough get their craft projects ready for the 6th annual Cresset Park School Craft Fair. The fair will be held this Saturday, Oct. 6 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Telstar High School cafeteria and gymnasium. CPS students have been making their projects over the last few weeks. Also featured at the fair will be local crafters, face painting, balloons, baked goods and more.

poems. I am reading one of Roald Dahl's entertaining books, Witches. Several of the children have seen the movie and are anticipating every event.

The answer to our social studies trivia question last week is that Ponce de Leon explored Florida while searching for the Fountain of Youth. He named it Florida, which means full of flowers.

The sixth-graders are writing spooky Halloween stories. They are turning in one final draft per week. What prolific writers! In science they are experimenting with energy transfer. This is one time the students can get away with shooting elastic—rubber band power! In social studies they are continuing their study of ancient China.

Our staff works together in more ways than one. We share materials and ideas. We meet formally once a week to take care of business. We take turns providing goodies for our weekly meetings, and now that cold weather is here we are bringing in homemade soups from time to time to be eaten at recess or at lunch. Mr. Burke formally awards certificates to our soup makers, which hopefully inspires others to continue this tradition! It's a pleasure to work in such a pleasant atmosphere!

NEWS FROM

Adult Education

The SAD 44 Adult and Community Education program has an exciting schedule of events planned for the month of November. Offerings include a number of small business management sessions, a financial aid workshop for adults, a course on the benefits of massage, workshops on bats, bird-feeding, whole grain cooking, machine quilting, making cream horns, and forestry.

Help Yourself Business Basics: A Management Seminar for small and micro businesses will be held at Telstar High School on Thursday, Nov. 7 from 4-9, with a dinner break. Gerry Dodd of Dodd-Blair Associates of Farmington will be the presenter. The workshop will cover elements of success, planning and time management, sources of technical and financial assistance, marketing concepts and financial management.

Dodd-Blair has offered several workshops in cooperation with SAD 44

Adult and Community Education in the past and has a reputation for highly effective presentation in a limited time frame, and for presenting material in a way that allows participants to relate it immediately to their own situation. The fee for the workshop is $35 with a reduced rate of $20 for additional registrants from the same business.

Understanding Yourself and Others: A Seminar on the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator will be held on Monday, Oct. 28 and Nov. 4 from 6:30-9 at Telstar High School. Patricia Williams will introduce participants to the MBTI, a highly regarded psychological preference profile used extensively in business and training environments. In the first session, participants will take the MBTI and use the results to explore their preferences, strengths and temperaments, as well as identifying sources of motivation and decision-making. In the second session, the seminar will focus on how MBTI results can be used to increase individual and team effectiveness and personal satisfaction in the workplace. It is possible for individuals with previous exposure to the MBTI to attend only the second session. The fee for the seminar is $40, with a charge of $25 for those attending only the second session.

The Benefits of Massage will be taught by Janet Willie who will present the theory and history of Swedish massage as well as instructing participants in experiencing the benefits of this healing art. The class will meet from 6-9 on Friday evenings at the Bethel Library for 4 weeks. The fee for the course is $15.

Bats and Feeding Our Feathered Friends are the topics of two one-session slide lectures by naturalist Chris Lewey of Conway, N.H. The seminar on bats will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 6 from 7-9 at Telstar High School. It will cover fact and fiction surrounding this misunderstood mammal. The bird-feeding workshop will be held on Thursday, Nov. 14 from 7-9. Each seminar has a fee of $5.

A Forestry Seminar covering tree identification and timber stand improvement will be held on Thursday, Nov. 7 from 7-9 at Telstar with forester Merle Ring. This session is geared for the woodlot owner as well as others interested. The fee is $5.

Whole Grains Sampler will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 5 and 12 from 6:30-9 at Telstar. Janet Willie, head of food services at the Nevry Outward Bound Center, will demonstrate the preparation of whole grains for delicious, inexpensive and nutritious meals. The fee is $10 per class or $15 for both.

Machine Quilting of Appliqued Pillows, with a choice of three designs, will be the subject of a two-week class, Monday, Nov. 4 and 18 from 7-9 at Telstar with Nancy Donnelly. The fee is $15.

The holiday season will get off to a rousing start with workshops on Nov. 12 and 13. Balsam Fir Wreaths will be the subject of a workshop at the Unicorn Flower Shop on Tuesday, Nov. 12 from 7-9. The fee of $10 includes necessary materials to construct a beautiful wreath. Cream Horns, a traditional holiday confection, will be the subject of a workshop on Wednesday, Nov. 13 from 7-9 with Julie Dyer at Telstar. Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

Congratulations to Veronica Melville and Brian Penley on their marriage Saturday, Oct. 19 at the Locke Mills Union Church.

On Monday, Oct. 14, Rick and Ann Roy joined her mother and husband and three sisters and their families in Bangor where they met their son and brother, Bill Couture, at the airport. The plane he was on was refueling there and they had a nice 2 hour visit with him. Ann said she had not seen him for 7 years, so it was good they had the opportunity.

It's been a rather quiet week at the Mills home. I take care of Elvira Littlehale on Tuesday and Friday, which was pretty uneventful. I take her out for rides which she enjoys. She also enjoys my cats so I take her to the house where she is pretty well surrounded by them. She gives them lots of attention and they like this, especially Marcella's cat Jasper who has been a pretty spoiled baby all his life. I just don't have the time to give to him that Marcella did, where she only had 2 and her other one was quite independent. She lost her other one Dancer just before she left for Florida. The only other news I have is John has a miserable cold (who hasn't?) and the old blue Olds has gone to the junkyard. The dog will miss it. He liked the rear shelf to lie on in the sun.

November is right around the corner. I have mixed feelings about November. My husband will be 66 and getting which will mean changes. It's a good thing we go along well because with this small house we are pretty sure to each other's pocket. It's also a waiting season and while I do need the need to keep the deer manageable, starving to death not being the best way to go, I do not enjoy the killing and I worry about the cats what with traps, bow hunting and guns, and people shooting up camps, etc. When one comes up missing you always imagine the worst scenario possible and it's nearly impossible to find them even if you look, there are just too many places to search and for them to hide in if they are hurt. Also, there is always someone getting hurt. It is a good thing most hunters are responsible people but there are always a few who get trigger-happy or are like the one who stopped his car several years ago and wanted to know what a deer looked like. I would like to think he was being facetious, but you never know. I suppose if you don't know it is better to ask but still...

Charlotte Cole went to Helen Chase's to help celebrate her birthday although she also celebrated it with the Ladies Circle. They had supper and played cards. People attending were Charlie and Jeannette Knight, Jeannette goes to the hospital (Stephens Memorial) on Oct. 25 where she expects to undergo an operation.

The Ladies Circle meeting was held Wednesday, Oct. 16 and they planned the fall sale which will be Friday, Nov. 22. There will be a luncheon at 11:30. The sale starts at 10:30 and lasts until 2:30. There will be the usual food, grabs, white elephant, Christmas crafts and cookie walk.

Vera Cross accompanied Charlotte Cole to Franklin Grange #60, where they helped with the program and had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jordan, Saturday night.

Friday night Charlotte Cole and Helen Chase were in North Paris where they were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Gibbs.

Charlotte Kimball was in Mechanic Falls on Oct. 11 to visit friends, Walter and Florine Perry, the Pipers and Mary Record, who was Charlotte's landlord at one time.

Moose are really roaming the neighborhood. Clare Plawlock saw one come out the woods behind her house and cross the road into Leland Coolidge's pasture on Oct. 11. On Oct. 16 one was crossing the road just above my driveway as I came along by Peter Haines' place. Fifth moose I've seen since the first of August.

Fred Haines was in Tugus last week. Floribel Haines was in Rumford to see her doctor on Oct. 12.

Dana and Millie Jackson made a trip into Massachusetts stopping at Hamilton. On the way home, they came by way of Merrimack, N.H.

Millie said she did not think the leaves were as pretty as they were around here.

Charlene Haines took Verlie Mason to Boston on Oct. 17 to see her doctor there. We do not know if she will be put in the hospital or come back home on Friday.

Evelyn Tamminen from Yarmouth and her son David with wife, Joanna were recent visitors at Rudi and Barbara Honkala's along with her brother Bill Hastings and his wife from Gorham, N.H. They celebrated the arrival of Bill's new grandson, William C. Hastings born on Oct. 12 in Conard, N.H.

Freda Edmonds, Lillian Moore, and Polly Smith visited Nellie Olson in Canton last week. The first time the four sisters had been together in some time.

Alder River Grange 145 had a regular meeting on Oct. 11. Plans for the food sale were finalized. The food sale on Saturday at the I.G.A. was a success, thanks to all the people who baked food for the sale.

Robert and Donna Curtis saw a coyote in the road at the foot of Blake Hill last week.

George and Dolly Olson saw a bear in the middle of Rte. 2 coming from New Hampshire. They were by the Town and Country in Gorham when the bear showed up.

Gena Morgan was home from the University of Maine at Orono on Oct. 11. She returned to school on Oct. 16. While home, a birthday party for her was held at her grandparents, George and Barbara Olson. Present were George and Barbara Olson, George and Dolly Olson, Jr., Melvina Cummings from Madison, Clay Mountain and girlfriend, Dawn from Moodus, Conn. The light perfumes of summer have gone for the heavy frosts of night have brought the blackened vines and flowers.

My chipmunk is doing his last gathering; pouches stuffed, carrying from place to place his winter's hoard. He comes to my feeder time after time to look for seeds and sometimes leaps to my window sill to let me know that he is around looking for food. In a short time he will enter his home for hibernation in the quiet dark, sigh, and enter enormous nothingness until spring.

The haste of the green world has vanished.

The cattails stand in bayoneted ranks by the ponds and swamps.

Sunrises catch my eye wherever I walk. They turn red as the birches turn to gold.

Along the roads, in the fields and woods I see rocks weathered and gray and patched with lichens. Everywhere there is a display of color to delight the eye. I love it all.

When on Patch Mountain there were miles of stone walls, rough stones carted there from the fields; probably on ox drawn drags and piled into the early New England functional fences.

On some days I could hear the wind in the whispering maples and sighing pines, and the restless leaves not yet ready to settle into their beds for the winter.

One day I left the road to go into the forest; and found solitude and quietness. Seated on a giant boulder, I looked at the mountains so lovely in their colored robes. Graceful ferns waved gently in the breeze.

The winter nights will soon be here and the stars will seem low enough to touch. But I'll remember this day with the beautiful veining of maple leaves, the balmy air, the still and glassy pond and most of all the mountains, blue and mauve, gold and red brooding and unchanging as a backdrop to a giant stage. These are the hills of home, which fascinate and challenge me. All is the work of Nature laid before me. I am invited. I go.

The meeting at Paris Cape Historical Society to which I was invited to take part on Thursday evening was very interesting. I enjoyed it and met several old friends, one of whom I had not seen since the 1920's when at Gould Academy.

My callers this week were: Evelyn Tamminen, Yarmouth; Barbara Honkala, Bethel; Lettie Brooks, West Paris; the Inman cousins who were with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman, at Camp Maplewood, Saturday night and Sunday.

I visited Ann's new house on Sunday and on that day we celebrated Sally's birthday.

Saturday, Oct. 12 Mark Thayer brought Jason and we visited Barbara Felt.

Saturday, Oct. 12 Mary Smith and I went to the dance at West Paris Grange Hall. A good crowd. Lucille Robbins won first prize, Bertha Benoit won second, Myrtle Cadenall and Harold Raymond won third. They were all good.

I heard that the dance at West Summer was quite a crowd. Music was by the "Old Parisians".

Tuesday, Nov. 5 the West Paris Seniors will meet at Ledgeview for our Thanksgiving dinner and meeting at noon.

Saturday, Oct. 26 there will be a ham supper at North Paris Hall. It will be the last one of the season. Ham, mashed potato, squash, peas, salads, rolls, biscuits, home made pies, and almost forgot Jackie's baked beans.

Saturday, Nov. 2 will be a busy day. West Paris Historical Society are having a hunters breakfast, a flea market and food sale at the West Paris Grange Hall going from 8-1 p.m. The Finnish Historical Society is having a ham supper starting at 5:30 p.m. There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall that night. Music will be by the Felt band.

My callers were Joe and Madge Vatcher, Joe Kalinowski, Norma Reidy, Odell Heath, Herman and Thelma Card.

Joe Kalinowski's company has been Charlie Walesis, Helen Chylnacki, Greenwood City, Stella Poyachowski, Windsor Lockes, Conn., John Libratone, Windsor Lockes, Conn., Pat

Hasepis, Ida Holbrook, and Stanley Unikawaiz, all from Connecticut. They went on different sight-seeing trips and they liked the Country Way Restaurant very much.

Thursday, Oct. 17 Mione Record's electric oven went on the blink, so while Joe Kalinowski and his company were sight-seeing she baked a turkey in Joe's wood stove oven. It was delicious. We had mashed potato and gravy, squash, peas, boiled onions, cranberry sauce, salad, yeast rolls, apple crisp and a pumpkin dessert with whipped cream. Those there were Carroll and Mione Record, Doris Lawrence, Lloyd and Linda Record and Forrest, Stanley Unikawaiz, Pat Hasepis, Ida Holbrook and the boss Joe Kalinowski. The girls from Connecticut did KP and there were plenty of dishes to do. A good time by all.

Larry Billings says that there was an interesting article on Christopher Columbus in Time magazine recently. Remember the anniversary of his voyage coming up in 1992.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews visited me Sunday, Oct. 13 and put on most of my double windows and doors ready for winter.

I went to the Paris Cape Historical Society on Oct. 10 with Bertha Benoit and Colista Morgan. We were guest teachers at this order and spoke on our early teaching days. There were 6 teachers present. We were presented an apple, corsage, and given a beautiful carnation which I have on my dining table. It's beautiful. Mr. Lentz was there taping and recording the teachers' words.

My telephone went off Sunday. Deven Andrews was up but he couldn't find anything here. So he will fix it Monday at the office.

Esther Davis was up about 9 a.m. to see if I was O.K. Then she was taking food to West Paris for a food sale. Esther is a very busy woman with all the sales she cooks for and usually attends the sale to help out all she can.

Lyme Disease: Campers Beware!

According to Dr. Allen Steere, author of a recent article in the journal Modern Medicine, Lyme disease, a condition caused by ticks, can lead to heart, nervous system, and arthritic complications if the disease is not detected and treated during its early stages.

Campers, hikers, and people living in wooded areas should take extra precautions because of the presence of ticks in wooded areas. Lyme disease is caused by a bacteria that lives in ticks. Ticks bite humans and pass on the bacteria that causes Lyme disease. Symptoms of the disease are reported to appear as late as thirty days following the tick bite. The victim may experience red bumps, a bulls-eye rash, flu-like symptoms, fatigue, stiff neck, headache, chills, fever, and/or muscle aches.

If left untreated, Lyme disease often progresses into cycles of arthritic flare-ups. According to health experts, the most effective treatment for Lyme disease is with one of two antibiotics, doxycycline or amoxicillin. Prevention of Lyme disease begins with the wearing of protective clothing when camping or when going into wooded areas and the use of an effective tick repellent.

The planning board met at the Town Office Monday night with all 3 members present.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Don Brooks of Bethel, David and Peter Libby of Sebago Lake, and Nelson and Mary Hood of Auburn. The Brooks asked questions about restrictions and regulations concerning moving the Chilton's log cabin that they'd purchased onto their land.

Mr. Libby asked for a permit to build a camp on land formerly part of the Fred Lane property near the Upton-Grafton line.

The Hoods were granted a permit to cut 31 live trees on their Birch Point property and also asked questions about procedure for building at some future day.

Guests at Heritage Farm included Edw. Bernier of DeSoto, Texas for several days and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Buck of Buckfield for an evening.

Guests at the Ray Bernier house during the long weekend included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Perry of Gardiner, The Floyd Diceys, Shannon Shawnee and Tricia Dicey of Manchester, N.H., Mark Sherry, Tiffany and Jacob Whitson of Billerica, Mass., John and Avis Arata and Carl and Shirley Arata of Winthrop.

Ralph and Harriett Brown have arrived home after being in Chicago to attend the wedding of their granddaughter.

There was a good attendance at the harvest supper here at the church vestry this last week. Church services are being held at the church in East Stoneham for the month of October. Also church school started there this last Sunday. Children are invited to attend the session which begins at 9 a.m. Sunday worship is at 10 a.m. Last Sunday East Stoneham Church was host to the Unity Group of small churches as World-wide Communion Sunday was observed. Pastors from the respective churches participated.

Clyde Millett brought Frances and Bob Grant's 4 head of cattle home for them for the winter.

Phyllis Millett is away to Kentucky to visit her daughter for a few weeks. Diane Johnson, our Avon Lady, is home from the hospital after having major surgery. We wish her well.

Matthew Nelson has been busy selling popcorn around town for benefit of Cub Scouts. We just recently heard that he won third prize for the cake he and his father made this past week which was in the holiday theme.

Peter Fox has hurt his hand while taking docks out of the lake and will be unable to work for a few weeks. Mrs. Gladys Plummer's son and wife from Texas have been here visiting her.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Bear River Grange will meet Nov. 9 with a 6 p.m. supper. A program by Kevin Slater of Mahosuc Adventures and a group of young people from the Newry area will tell of their experiences of a canoe and camping trip on Lake Umbagog this past summer. The parents are invited to supper and program. The grange meeting will follow.

Rev. Norman and Marion Scruton of Washington state were guests of Sylvia and Bill Wight recently. They spent time on their tree farm in Upton.

Donald and Cora Tetley of West Warwick, R. I. spent a few days with his brother, Norman and Louise Tetley recently.

While my niece Theresa G. Toti of Harrisville, R. I. was here spending some time in North Newry, we took a ride to visit with Sunny, their dog, around the Wight campground in back of their house. When we came in the house, she told us all about those "nature camps" that were built years ago and showed us photographs of them and some of a Mr. Charles Kellogg "The Bird Man" who built them. A story unfolded about this man of superior mentality who came from California where he was born and settled here in North Newry and built these "nature camps". The legend has it that he could sing like a bird, that he could put out a flame with his voice, or simply start an automobile by singing a bird song. People asked him how to stop a baby's crying, by singing to it. He was a natural man. He could go through a forest unharmed without a gun. He knew how to "develop" water in arid land, (dowsing?). How to make a fire without a match, (rubbing two sticks together?). These and many more questions were asked and were answered by Charles Kellogg the "nature man". He was a lecturer, a poet, philosopher, worker, teacher, craftsman, artist...He inspired other people because of his life's work. He confused scholars by solving nature's teaching problems that annoyed their trained minds. All this was in the late 1890's or early 1900's. He truly was a natural man, no drugs, no tobacco, no alcoholic drinks and no "flesh" food. He kept his senses clean and alert, his physique perfect. He would say "give a dog meat and his senses and smell are dulled, drug him and the senses are completely absent."

He wanted to teach people to SEE, THINK, and FEEL for themselves. What a wonderful story...Then Sylvia took us in her little study and played a record on an old Victrola of this bird man whistling like a warbler. Thank you Sylvia for a wonderful time spent with you.

CPS teacher Brenda Hays made the local papers twice this week and being not only a teacher but mother to four children deserves to be at the head of this column. True, there are only two little boys and one little girl at Brenda's house; but the biggest kid there is a peanut. Now to more serious news.

Oct. 14 Mother's Club news was as follows: Terry White has joined the Mother's Club. Shortly after the meeting started, the lights went out for about 15 minutes till someone fixed the problem. Shirley Keith won the mystery prize at the meeting. The Halloween Party for the children of Newry will be held on Oct. 27 (also Mother-in-law Day) at 1 p.m. at the Newry Town Hall. Members are to supply either candy, cookies or prizes.

Next meeting at the Town Hall will be on Nov. 11. Refreshments are to be brought by Olive Anderson, Betsy Clark and June Swan. This meeting will be a beano night and members are to bring prizes. The Christmas party (for members) will be on Dec. 9 as a potluck supper. Plans will be formed up at the November meeting. Each member attending the Dec. 9 party is to bring their own place setting.

Thanksgiving baskets committee is made up of Olive Anderson, Bea Lowell and Sylvia Wight. The girls are to get together at Olive Anderson's house on Nov. 26 to prepare and deliver baskets.

Some special news: The Eleanor Davis family moved into their new house on Oct. 16. On Nov. 3 from 2-4 p.m. there will be a housewarming at their new house and anyone who would like to help should call or see either Wendy Davis Hanscom or Nancy Wight for details.

On Oct. 14 at a Western Maine Fireman's meeting I warned "Fireman Paul" I'd mentioned to him in this column; done. Now back to work Paul! Bethel's Fire Chief Jim Young is no longer president of the above group. By the way, Newry Fire Chief "Link" Conkright helped Bethel's chief with the fire safety training two weeks ago.

On Oct. 16 there was a jewelry party at Betsy Clark's house and the ladies had fun (mother told me this as she had fun).

Fire safety tip for this week is: if while cooking a meal the food catches on fire; cover pan, turn off heat, and leave covered for a minute or two. If room gets smoky from fire open windows and doors. If fire is too big, call the fire department and get out! As in the case of any fire in your house, get the family together outside after calling in the fire. Do not try to put out the fire yourself or go back for something you forgot, whatever it is it can be replaced; YOU cannot!

Last Monday night was a great one at Franklin Grange as it was Music and Talent night. A great program if I was the one who got it up. It was a good long one and an enjoyable one with music by the Felt band. The Bedard Trio played and sang for us, my granddaughters came and danced and their mother sang. Russell spoke a piece which brought laughter as usual when he speaks. Harry Boyer and Loretta entertained us with a skit, Harry also sang, Yvonne and Johnny Nowlin performed, Larry Risko played guitar and sang a cute song. Charlotte Cole and Iona Osnoe performed together with music and dance, Bertha Benoit sang, Althea Fish played piano, Dot Canwell whistled and sang a song also. Russell, Peggy and I put on a skit. Carl Brooks played his bones for us which I enjoy very much and Phil Wright came and played his fiddle music. It was an enjoyable evening. We had about 67 there at the secretary's count. The program ended with the Felt band playing a number of songs and some dancing but the floor isn't very good for that at this time. It needs attention to have it back so folks could dance as they did when I learned years ago.

I was in Portland on Thursday and got to see what the Bio-feedback machine is like and what it does. Interesting but don't know how it will work out as yet. No miracles on the first try.

Eva Swanson went home from visiting with Peggy on Tuesday and sent a letter to let us all know she got home safely. She had enjoyed the program on Monday evening, also.

We are hoping to get up a variety show to benefit Pomona at some time in the future so keep in touch and we will let you know where and when. If we can get a show as nice as the one I had Monday evening, all would have a great time. Music and humor help one to forget their cares for awhile at least.

Russell and Peggy went to West Paris to the dance on Saturday evening and Peggy won fourth prize in the costumes worn that evening. She said Lucy Robbins won first and all agreed that she sure should have. I didn't go but they didn't have as many as usual as the Parisians were at West Sumner and that was too close so some of their followers went there. They had a good time and that counts for a lot.

Peggy went to West Bethel on Sunday afternoon to visit her daughter, Loretta and family.

David Yates came up and took down the other 2 trees that Hurricane Bob had started to uproot. He also cleared along the roadside where the tree workers had left a mess. They have been cutting limbs to clear the electric lines better and about time as we lost our power at least 6 times this summer and presume that was the reason. The wires were encased in the tree branches.

Mary must be off and running this morning as I can't reach her by phone as usual. She is one busy lady and I would hate to try to keep up with her. She makes many trips to doctors and others for the children she cares for.

Hope the trial bit is over with on T.V. and that they get things straightened out. Don't seem as though they needed to air it all to the world but suppose some thought it a good thing. Nothing about it that I enjoyed.

Another week gone by and this morning looks bright and lovely even though rather cool. Reminds one of what is to come and lots of us don't look forward to it at all. Got to get cars fixed up for winter and plan to have my winter tires put on soon. Got to put on storm windows, also and that is a job but sure helps keep out the cold. How nice it would be if we were all wealthy enough to fly south and stay out of the worst cold and not have to shovel that lovely snow! Oh well, no harm in dreaming.

COMMUNITY II

ing home), physical therapy, spiritual health, and social work.

It was agreed that new preventive program developments were going well in the Bethel area at this time. This was attributed to more awareness and less stigma due to publicity of the national media, i.e., TV, magazines, etc.

The participants agreed that a strong sense of spiritual, emotional and community support in a rural setting provided lifestyle and values important to us as individuals.

Our hopes over the next five years would see a widespread availability of health care services for everyone, and a coordinated K-12 health education program in our schools.

Some of the external forces we recognize that impact health professions are the economic situation, distance from more specialized care, federal, state and local regulations and mandates.

The participants feel that we are and should be an integral part of the community co-operating with all agencies and civic groups. We all agreed we'd like to see a recreation center for all citizens.

Another hope is that we address the care and housing for our aging population, as well as the increasing problems of domestic violence, child abuse and the AIDS epidemic. We realize the continuing need for encouraging small businesses into the area that we may have a healthy and rewarding future.

Painters, Plumbers and Carpenters

The group acknowledges that there is work available, primarily prompted by lower interest rates, but of a much smaller nature than a few years back, and much more competitive. Concerns for the future centered around the need for Workman's Comp. reform, a building code, and licensing of contractors.

External forces having an impact included the real estate market, operational costs, interest rates, and changes in tax rules. Broader range concerns discussed were the question of future growth, the need for affordable housing, and the reliance upon the ski industry.

Artists and Craftspeople

Thursday night, Oct. 10, twelve people met at Melody Bonness's house in Bethel to compile data for the artists and craftspeople reactions to the six questions presented by the planning committee for Community Conference II.

Participants identified as major concerns need for the recognition of artist work, need for a specific visual arts organization and need to be a support group to fellow artists and craftspeople.

Other items people discussed were the wish to promote creative development in the school system and the wish to find ways to integrate artists into the community.

Artists and craftspeople feel the natural beauty of the area encourages them and inspires their work. Finally, projecting five years into the future a dream would be that Bethel become an art center with more studios and galleries.

Energy in the group snowballed, people left the meeting feeling positive about their contacts with fellow artists and craftspeople.

Youth

A Youth Task Group composed of Casey Swan, Heidi Moore, Susan Crandall and Martha Newell met at Telstar on Oct. 8 and discussed various issues affecting the youth of this area.

The major concern identified was lack of things to do and places to go for underage kids. It was felt that instituting a link between the young and the various town committees was also important, so that youth were directly represented in any planning process directly affecting them - for example recreation, youth activities.

Because of the small turnout at the Oct. 8 meeting (away sporting events had a deterrent effect), a second focus group meeting for Thursday, Oct. 24 was scheduled. The meeting will further discuss the focus group questions about the area, and organize a strong youth presence at the Community Conference on Nov. 15. Any youth interested in participating may call Martha Newell at 824-2780.

FOCUS

The meeting of the Performing Arts FOCUS group took place at Oct. 7, 7:30-9:30 at the Bingham House. People present were Don Murphy, Kathy Slack, Billy Davis, Carol Fiske, Harry Davis, Harry Faulkner, Burt DeFrees, Dick Haines, Marguerite Graham, and Pam Weeks.

Once under way, participants eagerly contributed comments regarding issues and concerns for the present and future of the performing arts in Bethel and the surrounding towns.

Initial present concerns brought up were: lack of "venues" provided for professional performing artists; the need for an active community theater and full-time director who could not only attend to the needs of Bethel, but also to the theatrical needs of Rumford and surrounding towns; bringing in audiences to see performing arts' performances has been a challenge; the group discussed strategies for attracting people to attend events.

Next on the agenda was discussion about the positive characteristics attributed to life in the Western Maine area: quality of life, devoid of crime fears; easy access to outdoor recreational activities in this beautiful environment; availability of performing arts through the Mahosus Arts Council; existing public forums for local performing artists (in dance, theater and music).

The concluding discussion encompassed FOCUS members' hopes and dreams for the performing arts in this area: an Artists In Residence program for each grade in the schools, as well as an increase of performing arts programming in the lower grades; development of a coordinated community calendar publicizing all performing arts' events (professional and non-professional); more financial support for the performing arts; creation of a community marching band; re-integration of teenagers and fledgling contests into the area; construction of a permanent, outdoor, summer performing arts structure (on the common, perhaps) where free performing arts' events could be enjoyed by all; development of a community radio station featuring local performers; increased availability of musical instruments for student (and public) usage.

Last but not least, the group was most excited about the development of an active, viable performing arts' directory—listing area performers (and abilities) as well as available performance spaces. Initiation of this might be possible via an ongoing, informational performing artists' chain letter.

the addition of four-foot-wide paved shoulders.

The second type of road work will be done from the Gore Road east. It will include a three-inch pavement overlay, new eight-foot shoulders and guardrails.

Hendrickson said the speed limit on the two sections of road will remain the same. "We design on the existing miles per hour. Just because it's a new speed sign going up," he said.

Hendrickson said later that the planned work would be similar in nature to the construction done this summer south of the Welchville junction on Route 26.

Some wetlands may be filled in, Hendrickson said, but at this time the amount has not been determined. He said that if wetlands are filled, the state must create new wetland areas to compensate for it.

The project's cost is estimated at $1.85 million dollars. Hendrickson said 75 percent of the money will be paid by the federal government and the rest by the state.

Right-of-way engineer Jack Brown told Greenwood residents that new right-of-ways will have to be purchased around some existing intersections and a few village homes and businesses. The state will pay a fee for the purchases. The fair market value of the land will be determined by a state assessor, he said.

Brown said the state also needs to obtain grading easements and permission to reconstruct abutters' driveways. The state will pay for the reconstruction of driveways, but not for the grading easements, he said.

"In essence the state will take title to the land needed to construct and maintain," Brown said. "It doesn't mean that everyone is happy or settled. You can appeal to a panel made up of an attorney, appraiser and county commissioner. The panel will listen to both sides and will make a decision regarding what is fair and just and due to an owner. It still doesn't mean everyone is happy. They can appeal to Superior Court."

Brown also said that if anyone's drinking supply is destroyed along the way it would be replaced. Water supplies in Greenwood are private—the town has no public water system.

If the water supply is disturbed enough so that a householder feels he cannot drink the water, the state will provide drinking water if necessary, Brown said.

Airport

from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m., seven days a week—which would provide a degree of security for the unattended airport.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley said she had checked with the Maine Department of Transportation and Federal Aviation Administration, both of which had no objections to the arrangement as long as it could be canceled with 30 days notice.

Initially, Parker had also proposed that if the town would pay for the cost of materials (estimated at $850), he would provide the labor to "fix it up and make it presentable." He proposed a number of improvements at the shed, including insulating it, installing a door and heating it, with his own portable kerosene heater (which would be taken out at night).

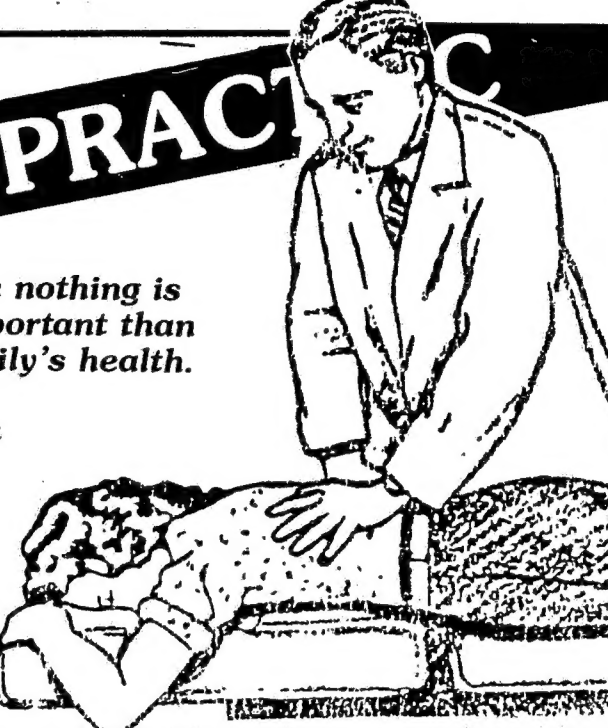

Henley, however, said that the uses of the airport grant were limited by law, and did not include such improvements.

The selectmen then approved a trial lease of six months and instructed Henley to work out the details with Parker.

In other business Monday, the board voted to continue, for at least one more year, selling salted sand to private businesses, to allow the Bethel Chamber of Commerce to use the common for a "A Country Christmas in Bethel" on Dec. 7, and decided that it had no objections to the Bethel Inn's plan to repair the sluiceway in the Mill Brook Dam so that water could be stored for summer irrigation of the golf course.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post #68 along with members of the Auxiliary Unit gathered on Thursday night, Oct. 17 for their Annual Boys and Girls State Banquet, honoring those who were sent as delegates of the Post and Auxiliary to the respective Boys and Girls State Conferences last summer.

The two girls who were sent were Heather Roberts, daughter of Timothy Roberts of Welchville and Elinor Andrews of Bryant Pond and Dawn Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Davis of North Woodstock. Interestingly enough the girls are cousins. The Post's delegate to Boys State, held this year at Maritime Training Center in Castine, was Troy Wing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wing of Bryant Pond.

All three delegates gave good reports of their experiences. Miss Roberts indicated that she found her attendance to Girl's State, which this year was held at Husson College in Bangor, "a time of learning as well as fun and excitement." She was chosen to the House of Representatives of the "Federalist Party." She indicated that Sen. Cohen was one of the speakers. Miss Davis also mentioned that she too enjoyed the experience, watched a mock town meeting with great interest as well as listened to various speakers. Both girls mentioned taking part in a time of displaying various talents as part of the conference.

Troy Wing, delegate to Boys State spoke well of his experiences, indicating that he too, "learned a lot of interesting things." Said he was a representative of the "Nationalist Party," played sports and was a member of the "Color Guard." He said there were approximately 500 Boys from all over the state and that he would "be glad to go again if he had the opportunity."

Members of the Auxiliary served a delicious ham supper with mashed potatoes, vegetables, cole slaw along with ice cream and cookies for dessert. Those seated at the Head Table were as follows: Vito DeFilipp, past national commander; Robert Moore, Commander, Oxford County Council; Edw. Roach, Americanism officer, Dept. of Maine; Jackson-Silver Post #68; Kathleen MacAllister, Auxiliary president, Jackson-Silver Post #68; Shirley Williams, Girl's State director; Gabriel Moore, chairman, Dept. of Children and Youth; Ethel LaCourse, Second Dist. president; Heather Roberts, Girl's State delegate; Dawn Davis, Girl's State delegate; Fannie Cummings, past Dept. president of Maine; Sonja Davis, Girl's State mother; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wing, Boys State parents; Richard Cross, first vice president, Jackson-Silver Post #68; Shane Lovejoy, Sons of Legion, Jackson-Silver Post #68; Cleveland Lovejoy, past commander, Jackson-Silver Post #68, Cathryn Lovejoy, past president auxiliary Jackson-Silver Post #68.

Remarks were made by Mrs. Williams, Girl's State director of the 1200 that attended the graduation and the busy schedule of the entire program. Mrs. LaCourse also made brief remarks.

Edward Roach, Americanism officer, also made brief remarks, indicating that this program of the American Legion was of great importance, and was started to teach democracy, Americanism and patriotism to future leaders of our nation.

Mr. DeFilipp said that this particular program was instituted back in 1937 by two Scout masters to teach town politics and is sponsored by the various Legion posts with the help of private donations.

As part of the program there was a presentation made by Fannie Cummings to the Post of a large framed American Legion Auxiliary emblem done in water colors many years ago by Glenn Martin of Greenwood, a cousin of Mrs. Cummings.

Proceedings closed with prayer by the Post Chaplain Rodney Hanscom.

Task Force News:

Friday, Nov. 15, Community Conference II is drawing near—please watch for the insert in next week's "Bethel Citizen." The Bethel Area Task Force discussed this and other business at its bi-weekly meeting on Sunday, Oct. 20.

Focus groups have been meeting throughout the month to gather information for the conference. It is hoped that these participants will attend the conference to help put their ideas into action plans. The conference will also rely on the energy and creativity of attendees who were not members of focus groups. We are hoping for many participants from the SAD #44 community.

Planning committee members met with Edie Seashore on Sunday afternoon to review notes from focus groups and determine the format for the Nov. 15 event. The next planning meeting is 7:30-9 a.m. on Monday, Oct. 28. The Task Force will meet on Sunday, Nov. 3, 7-8 p.m. All community members are invited to help either or both groups. And don't forget the conference on Friday, Nov. 15, 9-4 at the Locke Mills Legion Hall.

RCH OFFERS SIBLING CLASS

The arrival of a new baby is a happy but confusing event for older brothers and sisters. A sibling class offered by the Rumford Community Hospital will let children become familiar with the Maternity Care Unit and the newborn nursery. It will make brothers and sisters feel as important as the new baby and part of the family birthing experience.

The program, facilitated by Michelle Gilbert, R.N., will be presented on Tuesday, Oct. 29 at Rumford Community Hospital in the third floor lounge from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Gilbert is a maternity nurse and has two toddlers of her own.

The sibling class is intended for children over 2½ years of age. Included in the program is a film, feeding and diapering practice and a snack. The children who participate are encouraged to bring a doll or a teddy bear with them for the "practice" sessions.

Area members of the 1918 Club met at a local restaurant on Oct. 15. Special guests were the state treasurer, Robert Webb and his wife, Frances, of Westbrook; state secretary, Louise Doughty and her husband, Everett, Windham.

Fourteen members and 10 guests attended from Rumford, Mexico, Andover, Lewiston, Bethel, and the International King and his wife, West Peru. Margaret MacGregor, Mexico, won the door prize.

The 1992 meeting will be held on Oct. 6 at noon.

The Dec. 7 holiday dinner-meeting will be held at Valle's in Portland. All members attending are asked to take unwrapped children's gifts to be given to "The Clearing House" for Christmas distribution.

Young is a graduate of Jay High School in Jay, and Husson College in Bangor, with a degree in accounting. She is a certified public accountant. Her duties are to serve as an

MDOT to open bids today for Gilead bridge work

The Maine Department of Transportation is planning to replace the deck of the Androscoggin River Bridge in Gilead. Bids on the project are to be opened Wednesday, Oct. 30 in Augusta.

The bridge, a one-lane structure located just south of the intersection of U.S. Route 2 and Route 113, carries traffic between Route 2 and the North Shore Road.

Plans call for removal and replacement of the existing bridge deck, repairs to damaged bridge steel, painting of the steel, replacement of roadside guard rail on bridge approaches, and other minor repair work.

During construction, the bridge will be closed to traffic. Because the bridge is used by local school buses, the closure will be scheduled to coincide with summer school vacation.

A timetable for the start of work on the project will be established by MDOT and the contractor after the contract has been awarded. MDOT specifications call for the bridge to be reopened to traffic by the start of the school year and completion of the entire project by Oct. 1, 1992.

Volunteer skiers sought to teach the disabled the joys of alpine skiing

Maine Handicapped Skiing (MHS) is looking for volunteers for its tenth season. MHS is a non-profit organization that teaches downhill skiing, cost free, to physically disabled children and adults. Volunteers are specially trained to help as midweek instructors.

Potential instructors need to be intermediate level or better skiers and have their own equipment. MHS provides a series of two-day training clinics in December and early January. A free day of skiing is given for each day of volunteering.

Anyone interested in becoming involved with MHS as a volunteer is urged to contact Scott Braman, volunteer program director at Maine Handicapped Skiing, Sunday River Ski Resort, RFD 2, Box 1971, Bethel, ME 04217 (207) 824-2440.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

The tables were prettily decorated with jack-o-lanterns and autumn leaves when Jackson-Silver American Legion Post and Auxiliary met for the Boys and Girls State supper on Oct. 17.

Following the advancement of the colors into the hall, Sylvia Dunham and Fannie Cummings unveiled a surprise. In sorting through some old items in the storeroom a large water color painting of the Auxiliary emblem was found. It had been painted many years ago by the late Glen Martin, then a member of the Post. It has now been beautifully framed and will hang in the Auxiliary meeting room from now on.

A bountiful meal was then served, followed by short remarks by the visiting distinguished officers who deferred to the young people. Heather and Dawn together spoke something of the living conditions at Husson College where the Girls State session was held during the hottest week of the summer. It seems that there were just three showers to each 30 plus girls so that some had to rise especially early to shower and still found the water already cold. They then told of each day's activities, from the first caucusses and developing of party platforms to the mock trial which was held at one time and the various speakers they heard. As the legislative bodies and governor were finally elected they found out how frustrating it could be to try to enact legislation.

They felt some empathy for our state and national legislative bodies as they found that, just when they had made up their minds how to vote, someone else's remarks could make them change their mind. Also, when they thought they had the necessary votes to pass a piece of legislation, it turned out that someone had changed their vote so that a proposed bill could not be passed. It turned out to be a very time-consuming, frustrating process.

It seemed evident that the main objectives of the Boys and Girls State program had been accomplished. They had been educated about the duties, responsibilities and privileges of American citizenship; the importance of taking an active part in government and of voting; the significance of the two-party system; and they learned this by doing, not reading.

A few items of business were taken up by the members following the supper. Among these was joint effort with the Post for funding two means of combating drug abuse beginning with very young children. One of these will take place next Wednesday at the Woodstock Elementary School when a living, symbolic fence will be formed around the school to keep drugs out.

The second is the purchase of a kit which includes a teaching guide, work books and tools for teaching third graders to recognize consequences, make good choices and resist involvement with addictive substances, thus having pride in themselves and their accomplishments.

It is hoped that, with the Mundt-Allen Post and Unit of Bethel and other interested organizations, these kits can be purchased for all of the third grades in the SAD #44.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 7.

Rotary Club notes

The Rotary Club held its weekly breakfast meeting at the Bethel Inn on Tuesday, Oct. 15. It was announced that, starting on Nov. 5, we will be meeting at the Sudbury Inn while the Bethel Inn is closed.

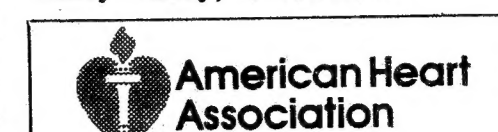

Melinda Remington gave Rotary information and read a section from the Rotarian magazine pertaining to Rotary's ideal of peace in the world.

Dave Preble announced that the citrus sale will begin on Oct. 28 and end on Nov. 26, with delivery date approximately the second week in December.

Our guest speaker was Norm Honde, a guest of Steve Wight, who spoke on the Hunger Mission in Haiti.

Norm was a very successful CPA when he sold his business to go into missionary work full-time. He is the leader of a Christian movement called Servants of the Cross that concentrate some of their energies on serving the hungry people of the country of which Haiti is amongst the poorest nations of the world. His presentation was very sobering but very inspiring as well.

Guests for the morning were Rick Flint, Sunday River; Paula Gillies, Eric Wight and Bruce Barth, Bethel; Ira Pitcher, Lewiston/Auburn; and Larry Wilday, Oxford Hills.

From the Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

Volunteers Melinda Remington, Ginger Kelly, Robin and Doug Zinchuk and Tim Brooks have returned from the four day Montreal Ski Show where they represented the Bethel area. That is a relatively new market for this area but a very worthwhile one to work at.

Progress is being made on updating the Chamber brochure, which we hope to have ready by Thanksgiving.

The Chamber has scheduled a general membership meeting for Tuesday, Nov. 19, to be held at the L.L. Bean Mountain Center of the Hurricane Island Outward Bound School at 7 p.m. All members and prospective members are welcomed to attend.

There will be a meeting of volunteers who would like to go to the Boston Ski Show from Nov. 14-17 on Wednesday, Oct. 30, at the Chapman Inn, Bethel.

The Chamber, in cooperation with Ski Mt. Abram and Sunday River Ski Resort, is again offering a mid-week season ski pass to our members. This pass is transferrable to both ski mountains and is also transferrable among the employees of the member business. It may be used mid-weeks as well as vacation weeks and may be purchased at the Chamber office for $385 during office hours between 9:30-4:30.

The REALTORS® Affordable Housing Fund:

Working to Provide Affordable Housing in Maine

The problem of adequate, affordable housing is obvious to everyone who lives in Maine. And even though our state abounds with unsurpassed natural beauty, no matter where you live or travel in Maine, it is impossible not to see very visible signs of unmet housing needs.

Today, hundreds of Maine REALTORS® and dozens of financial institutions are working together to improve the opportunities for affordable housing in Maine, through a unique, private sector initiative called the REALTORS® Affordable Housing Fund.

Earnest money deposits which would not otherwise earn interest-bearing accounts deposited into special interest-bearing accounts maintained by participating real estate agencies. Interest proceeds from the agency's special account are automatically paid to the Affordable Housing Fund by the financial institution which maintains the agency's account.

The REALTORS® Affordable Housing Fund is controlled and administered by the Maine Association of REALTORS® Foundation, which is a non-profit 501(C)3 corporation with its own Board of Directors. Both Casco Bank and Bethel Savings Bank participate in the Foundation.

Realtors® do MORE than sell houses!

Rebel hockey

Senior linemen Shilo Hutchins, Amy Hannon and Crystal Chase have done most of the scoring, with help from halfback Jen Bailey, Wight said.

On the defensive side, "If the offense scored, then the defense was able to keep the lead," she said. "Our halfbacks stay pretty busy between feeding the ball to the front line and backing up the fullbacks. We've stressed to the girls' all season that it's a team effort."

And when their opponents did break through the Telstar defense, they confronted goalie Danielle Bernier—who allowed only two goals all season.

Wight said at the beginning of the season that the team lacked depth, and it still does. "We've pretty much played with our starters and three subs at the most," she said. "We took people out just long enough for them to catch their breath or talk to them. It was a real tough game some of the subs didn't play. We've seen a lot of improvement, but we didn't quite get the depth we'd hoped for. The junior varsity is coming alive. They've been pushing themselves. Their last couple of games they've been humming, but if they haven't played varsity time, they're not likely to see varsity time in the play-offs."

If the veteran team stays healthy, the Rebels' play-off opponents will be in for an all out defensive and offensive assault.
